Summary Of Recall: The company said it's recalling children's and infants' Tylenol liquid manufactured between April and June. An examination of one of the inactive ingredients showed it did not meet internal testing requirements. Officials said the recall does not apply to children's Tylenol Meltaways or Junior Strength Tylenol Meltaways. The voluntary recall applies only to specific lots of children's and infants' Tylenol liquid products.

What You Should Do: Parents and caregivers who have given the product to their child or infant and have concerns should contact their child's healthcare provider.
